Protecting pocket woodlands, one acre at a time

NEWS RELEASE

November 8, 2019

ACRES: Strategic Review Process,

New Jersey Environmental Non-Profit Seeks Other Non-Profit Input

Active Citizens for Responsible Sustainability, Inc. (ACRES), is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, is currently engaged in a strategic review. ACRES board of trustees is working to more clearly define our organization's role as to how best utilize our resources to effectively participate in and support the region's environmental advocacy needs.

In short, how can ACRES fit in to New Jersey's environmental future?

- Does your environmental organization have a specific project or initiative in need of help, whether financial and/or human capital?
- Are you familiar with ACRES' history and the work our non-profit has accomplished?
- Does your group's work directly impact the health of small parcels of land, so-called 'pocket woodlands,' in need of further preservation and protection?

ACRES is seeking your organization's input, serving as a catalyst to help us more comprehensively define how ACRES can support your group's needs and in so doing, ensure a brighter environmental future.

If the answer to any of these questions is yes, then let's arrange a time to talk.
